

BASI AND SNOWSPORT SCOTLAND ANNOUNCE PARTNERSHIP

BASI and Snowsport Scotland are pleased to announce an agreement where both associations will work together jointly to deliver Level 1 instructor courses on artificial slopes. Initially, the Level 1 courses will include training and qualification in Alpine, Snowboard and Adaptive disciplines.

This new agreement marks a significant step to help simplify the process for aspiring instructors who wish to undertake an initial teaching qualification that would allow them to teach at artificial ski centres. The scope of operation for this course is similar to the former ASSI provided by Snowsport Scotland and to the existing BASI Level 1 course. Those currently holding either of these two qualifications will not be compromised in any way by the introduction of new course content. Indeed opportunities for progression beyond level 1 in alternative pathways are being opened up through the agreement between Snowsport Scotland and BASI.

Commenting on the announcement, BASI Training Manager Sean Langmuir said, "We are pleased to have Snowsport Scotland as a business partner and to formalise an arrangement where we can encourage the development of Level 1 courses at artificial slopes."
