NEW CEO FOR BASI

Fergus Waters has been appointed as the association's new Chief Executive Officer. The post becomes effective from the end of May 2010 when Fergus officially join the rest of the staff at BASI HQ in Grantown-on-Spey.

Reporting to the board of management, key responsibilities include ensuring BASI's financial stability, managing the association's future development and continuing to promote the international status of BASI for the benefit of members. Fergus joins BASI directly from his role as Director of the Scottish Mining Museum and his roots can be traced back to the Spey Valley pre 1988 with spells as a BASI Grade II instructor with Carrbridge Ski School, Struan House and Cairdsport.

Commenting on the new CEO's appointment, BASI Chairman Andrew Lockerbie said, "I am very delighted to welcome Fergus as the new Chief Executive Officer of BASI. He joins us with great credentials and I look forward to handing over the reins and seeing Fergus take the association onwards and upwards in the future."
