

Level 2 Instructor Teaching Resit

More About the Course

The Level 2 Instructor Teaching Resit course is designed to help you reach the necessary standard to be issued a Level 2 Instructor licence. The trainer will evaluate your performance throughout the course and a final decision will be made at the end of the week. Subject to reaching the required standards you will be eligible to apply for a Level 2 Instructor licence.

Your preparation for this course should be based on the action plan you received at the end of the last training course you attended. You can greatly help yourself by being familiar with the BASI manuals and in particular the sections relating to teaching and learning. Your experience of teaching will be developed and it will be a help to have at least thought through a few scenarios and how you would go about delivering this to a group.

Throughout the course we will endeavour to improve your performance in the following areas:

Understanding of the snowsport instructors role including:

- Safety considerations
- Group leadership
- Communication
- Customer Care
- Teaching principles and practice
- Teaching methods and understanding the learner

A typical day will involve a 9.30am start approximately and on snow training will continue to around 3.30pm, which includes a break for lunch. The classroom sessions will normally start at 5pm and will last up to two hours. Off snow sessions will include teaching reviews and group debriefs.

A more detailed list of the primary objectives, enabling objectives and assessment criteria can be found in the Pre-course information booklet. Your trainer will explain the assessment criteria for the course to you. At the end of the course you will be given guidance on actions to continue to improve your performance. In some cases students may not pass the course and further training may be recommended.

Our aim is to assist you to gain the maximum from the training. Your trainer will act as your guide and mentor throughout the course. Elements of the course will be challenging and sometimes difficult. Nevertheless, please remember that you have a dedicated team supporting you and your success is our success.
